

Costa Rican Residency...

Why Pursue Your Residency in Costa Rica?

According to International Living Ranking, Costa Rica is the first choice of retirement for foreigners worldwide.

This country has attracted tourists and retirees from all parts of the world for years, thanks to its tropical climate, low cost of living, and beautiful landscapes. Costa Rica offers foreign residents the perfect combination of relaxation, culture, nature, technology, medical & health security, safety, and much more... always surrounded by friendly Ticos.

Becoming a Costa Rican Resident can be difficult if you try to do it on your own, especially if you do not speak Spanish. So, it's best to hire a reliable and reputable Law Firm to assist with the complicated process of maneuvering through Costa Rica's bureaucracy.

Our Boutique Law Firm has vast experience in Immigration, for more than eight years we have been serving clients who move to Costa Rica and seek help to overcome their immigration processes. We keep track of all application files once presented to the Immigration Office and work together with our clients to efficiently accomplish all the requirements.

What do we do?

At Boutique Law Firm Gomez Tristan & Tristan, we assist our clients from the day they request an initial informative meeting into the immigration process until they become Residents and proudly possess their Legal Resident Status Card (DIMEX Card). With this clear objective, we divide our services into four stages:

- Creation of the Application File
- Submission of the Application File into the Costa Rican Immigration Office, which comes with the initial benefit of allowing a 90-day unrestricted stay in the country.
- Registration into "La Caja – CCSS" (Social Security of Costa Rica – National Medical and Health related support)
- Request for the final appointment in the National Immigration Office for the issuance of the DIMEX.

Residency for Foreigners Parents of a Costa Rican Child (By Family Connection)

Residency for Foreigners Parents of a Costa Rican Child (By Family Connection) - To apply for this category, the principal applicants must present themselves as parents of a Costa Rican citizen registered in the Civil Registry. Both parents will be primary applicants and must be reflected in the Birth Certificate (on record at the Civil Registry) of a Costa Rican born child and the result of the application will be Permanent Residence.

Likewise, the son or daughter of a Costa Rican citizen, not Costa Rican, can request the Residency as dependents must be recorded as such within the Civil Registry.
